This is included in a bike benefit.

» Bikes.

The benefit basically covers all types of bikes and is therefore suitable for all tastes. Choose between traditional bikes, mountain bikes, hybrid bikes and electric bikes (max. power 250 W and 25 km/h). Please double check with your employer if they have set a maximum price before ordering your bike. Thanks to EpassiBIKE's large partner network, there are endless options to choose from.

Choosing the right bike is not always simple. For those of you who feel somewhat unsure - remember that you can always take help from experts in our partner stores to find something that suits you.

» Accessories.

The bike benefit also includes equipment that is fixed parts of the bike, such as lights, locks and winter tires. However, the tax exemption does not cover non-fixed equipment such as helmets, shoes, bike bags or trailers. Below we have listed approved accessories that are included in the bike benefit.

- Ring bell
- Bike light
- Bike basket
- Splash cover
- Bike lock
- Pedals
- Winter tires
- Bike adaptation
- Installation and delivery costs

» Insurance.

It is you as an employee who is responsible for having your benefit bike insured throughout the leasing period. Double check that your home insurance covers benefit bikes before you place your order.

If something were to happen with the bike, Epassi will cover the home insurance deductible cost up to 50K SEK. That way Epassi can ensure that you will receive a new benefit bike without paying anything extra.

This is how the savings work.

The total cost of your benefit bike is based on the original price of the bike and accessories. For bikes of lower cost, the benefit is 100% tax-free, and the payment is then handled solely via gross salary deduction. If, on the other hand, you lease a somewhat more expensive bike, which exceeds 3000 SEK during a tax year, you are taxed on the excess part. Try our price calculator at epassibike.se to calculate your possible savings. You will also find examples further down this page.

As the benefit is offered as a deduction from your salary, you pay less tax. So – the higher the tax rate, the more you save! In addition, your employer's savings on social costs, thanks to the gross salary deduction, means that your leasing cost will be even lower.

Each leasing agreement is valid for 3 years, after which you are offered to buy the bike for the low residual value. During the leasing period, the finance company owns the bike.

This happens in situations of changes in employment.

The bike benefit can easily be transferred to your next employment in the event of changes in your work situation. If you end your employment with the employer where you had EpassiBIKE, you have the options below.

» Transfer the contract to your next employer.

Continue to lease your benefit bike as usual, but through your new employer. Please note, however, that this requires the approval of the new employer as they have to sign a service agreement with Epassi.

» Redeem the bike for the residual value.

If your next employer does not approve the contract with EpassiBIKE, you can redeem the bike by paying the remaining residual value. If you don't want to redeem the bike, you can return it to Epassi's appointed merchant partner for a 2500 kr deductible return fee. The Bike needs to be in proper shape. This Interruption protection can be used when the employment ends.

» In case of longer unpaid absences from the workplace.

If you are for some reason away from your workplace for a longer unpaid period, you have the following opportunities:

1. The lease payments during the period of absence are deducted from your last salary before the absence.
2. The lease payments during the period of absence are deducted from your first salary after returning from the absence.
3. End the lease by paying all the remaining costs at once.
4. Interruption protection can be used in cases with longer absences and when salary payments ends. This means you can return the Bike to Epassi's appointed merchant partner for a 2500 kr deductible return fee.

This happens when the leasing period ends.

At the end of the leasing period, you as an employee can redeem the bike for the residual value. In general, you can expect the cost to be around 20% of the original market price after a three-year contract. If you do not wish to redeem the bike, you are obliged to return it to EpassiBIKE.

Please note that the following conditions applies to be able to return a bike after the lease period. If the requirements below are not met, you are obliged to redeem the bike.

- The frame is straight and has no major damage.
- The wheel rims are in good condition, no broken spokes.
- The gears are in good condition.
- The brakes are in good condition.
- The tires are in good condition.
- In the case of an electric bike, the electric function must be operational.
